this port last Wednesday at 4 P. M. arrived in Baltimore on Saturday, having made the passage in the short space of fifty-six hours. FLOUR! FLOUR!-We invite the attention of street, commencing to-night.

-From We call especial attention to the advertisement in to-day's paper of Messrs. Geo. W. Clark & Co. They are offering an invoice of very superior Flour at very low figures. We commen all of our friends to this house, who are in want of a good article of Flour, as we know their stock at present is of a most excellent kind.

Ar a recent meeting of the Board of Commis sioners of the Orphan House the following resolution was adopted and ordered to be printed in the Resolv d. That the thanks of this Board be ten-dered to Mr. A. F. Ravenel: President of the North-eastern Railroad Company, for free transportation, and to Mr. P. J. Porcher for the use of his farm at the late pic-nic given to the children of this insti-tution on Friday, 12th instant.

Good FREIGHTS. - The steamship Manhattan, Captain WOODHULL, of the STREET line, and the Emily B. Souder, Captain LEBBY, of the LEARY line of New York steamers, departed from here on Saturday afternoon last carrying large and valuable cargoes and full passenger lists. In both cases the agents of these vessels were compelled to re fuse freight. It will be noticed by their clearances that the article of vegetables forms a prominent item. This flattering patronage is largely owing to the wise policy of cheap freights and low passenger fare, which is drawing from all quarters.

THE WHARF .- The iron steamer Z. B. Vance, which has been employed in carrying freight from this city to various points on the Santee River, and which was ready to leave here with a cargo of corn, bacon, and various supplies for the country, sunk at her wharf destruction of property and the different changes on Saturday night about eight o'clock. The cause of her sinking is not precisely ascertained, but she was found to be filling with water very rapidly about fifteen minutes before she went down, and an effort was made to start her pumps, but the Fortunately the Southern planters were not conwith water before any effectual efforts could be made to get her steam pumps to work. She now lies sunk in deep water, part of her cargo and tablish an agricultural interest which would be upper works floating about the dock, and some of terday in a damaged condition. A part of her cargo was fortunately in a large flat, and this porhas been saved. The Z. B. Vance was owned, we learn, by Mr. J. BROWNE, and her sinking will inflict a heavy loss on him as well as parties who may have supplies on board, which were not in-

CLEANING THE STREETS.—Charleston has always been considered a religious city, and the authorities, remembering that "cleanliness next to godli-ness is great grain," have determined to remove that obnoxious element, dust, which is so great a nuisance to the body corporate. To effect this, the services of the efficient street brigade have been secured and armed with broom and shovel they have been sent not to disperse but to collect the enemy. The result of their raid is to be seen n streets and the dust-heaps near the side-walks; the latter are removed as speedily as possible, but not unfrequently some maliciou gust scatters a heap to the four points of the compass, and the labor of the day is lost.

There is nothing more annoying than a cloud of blinding dust whirled in every direction by the wind, and though in some streets it has been kept down by the use of watering carts, yet the heat of the sun soon reconverts the mud into dust, and the reprieve is only temporary.

The use of the springling carts is very desirable but when the streets are flooded with water, the ings are almost impassable for ladies, who to pick their way daintily if they wish to save ses. As only those streets are watered where the residents pay for the privilege, it is evident that the dust will run riot in localities not thus favored, unless it is soon removed; but the Street Inspector has taken the matter in hand, and if the work is not interrupted, every street will meet with the same attention, and the summer's sun will shine upon a model city. The absence of dust in several of the prominent thoroughfares proves that the charge of the brigade has been otive, and though a disagreeable necessity in every city, when once removed, it is comparatively an easy matter to keep it under foot in its prope place, and prevent it from raising in clouds that lisgust every person who encounters them.

WHITE POINT GARDEN .- This beautiful prome ade was visited on Saturday afternoon by a larger number of persons than have attended at any pre vious evening during the present season. The eather was charming, and the sweet strains of martial music were borne by the zephyrs to every portion of the Battery, and eagerly listened to by ndreds who, while enjoying the invigorating sea breeze, were not unmindful of the melody that was floating in the air. The popularity of the Battery has been greatly increased since the intro duction of the street cars, and though the recent changes have in a measure affected their custom yet on Saturday they were crowded to their utmos capacity, and over two thousand persons were ena bled to visit the Battery and enjoy the music, the water and the salt air.

It was evident, from the joyous faces on Saturday, that it was a season of perfect enjoy ment; dull care had been thrown aside, and al the vexations and troubles of life were forgotten for with everything to please, and none to perplex it was not difficult to imagine the past but a troubled dream, only to be remembered when afflicted with the blues. Unfortunately for the gay promenaders, the numerous vehicles on the street raised terrific clouds of dust that threatened destruction to many gauzy bonnets, and interfered considerably with pleasures of the promenade, as none of the afflicted visitors were willing to return to their native dust at that time, and considered the insinuation as excessively disagreeable. We learn that this dusty visitation will be obviated in future, as arrangements have been made to sprinkle the streets, and suppress the nuisance, and by next Saturday, if the weather clerk does not interfere, both East and South Bay streets will be well (or sea) watered, as the latter element can be more

Notwithstanding the dust and heat, which were only petty annoyances, many persons remained on the Battery until the longthening and the waning shadows notified them of the approach of night; but fair Luns was in her zenith, and though daylight had gone, few who have ever taken a ramble on the Battery by moonlight would hesitate in awarding it the palm. The mellow light, and the dancing, sparkling water, which appeared like a silvery ses kissing the moon beams, are too well known to need a description, and proved to be strong attractions to the Battery visitors, who lingered until the last car, and then left with a determination to renew their acquaintance on the en-

. BARNWELL -- We had the pleasure last night of grasping the hand of an old acquaintance, Mr. E. A BRONSON, the Editor and Proprietor of the Barnwell Sentinel. Mr. Bronson brings a cheering account from his district, the people are not desponding, but are planting large crops of cotton, and are anticipating a generous yield. Provisions are planted in many sections, but the most attention is paid to the cotton crop. Mr. BRONSON has visited Charleston on business connected with his paper, and is stopping at the Pavilion Hotel.

MAYOR'S COURT, May 18 .- Florence Hercules, a very black man, who made love to some iron belong ng to the railroad company, was locked up for one week.

Ellen Lanneau, a colored woman, who was arrested for taking the law in her own hand, and beating a boy in the street, who had stolen an axe from her, and thereby creating a disturbance of the public peace, was made to pay $5.

The member of the Barleycorn Artillery often spoken of by us as a veteran drinker, was up again for getting tight and riotous in a stable; and as he exhibited no fear of being kicked out by the horses, he was taken from the building for beasts by a policeman, at the request of the proprietor, and fined $3.

Two ancient mariners were mulcted in $5 each for fighting in the street.

COURT OF COMMON PLEAS-Hon. R. MUNBO presiding.—The entire day was occupied in the call of the City Summary Process Docket. Several cases were tried and a great many decrees given, but by far the majority of cases were continued, on motion or by consent of counsel. One or two cases naving remained much longer on the docket than of trance, she delineates the very features of the person his Honor considered necessary, were stricken off. One in particular had been docketed for the nineteenth term. The cases were principally suits for sums of $100 and less, and were of no public interest. Only a portion of the docket was called, and it will be continued to-day.

QUIET OF THE CITY.-It is somewhat remarkable that while other Southern cities have been disgraced by riots and disturbances, the Palmetto City, the head and front of the whole secession movement, has not only escaped this stigma, but has been a pattern of morality, peace and quietness. This happy state is due principally to the moderation of her rulers, both civil and military, and also to the disposition manifested by her citizens to obey the laws, and not question their righteousness. Never since the close of the war have we enjoyed a period of more perfect repose than the present, at a time, too, when the Radical emissaries are secretly striving to form antagonistic parties, and to destroy the friendly feelings now existing between the races. Important changes have been made in corporate bodies, but no riot has followed, they have been accepted as necessities, unpleasant perhaps, but to be made he best of and not to be opposed.

A visit to the Mayor's Court any morning would 2d Poll, Palmetto Engine House, Anson street. at once convince the most incredulous of the true quietness of the city, for the cases brought up are generally trivial offences, such as drunkenness or ilfering, and are not confined to either class. The police are under admirable discipline, and though not officious in the discharge of their duties, are a terror to all evil-doers, who know that the laws cannot be broken with impunity, and seldom attempt any rascality on a large scale. While this state of affairs exist, we may confidently expect quiet and peace; and there is no reason to look for change, as persons of both classes feel that it is far better to live in unity than by any turbulent demonstrations to engender ill-feeling, that once raised, cannot be easily quelled. Charleston never was subject to mob law, and though her situation is now somewhat changed, her pride in the past is sufficient to guarantee a similar future.

Corron is King .- The superiority of the long staple cotton has been so often vaunted, that the sea islands of South Carolina were considered the cream of the earth, and the regal authority over vegetable kingdom willingly conceded to their silky staple. The war, and its attendant ovils, the consequent upon its termination, staggered this belief, as the desolate plantations were not considered capable of producing the same quality of cotton, especially with a different system of labor. nt to load a life of ic commenced to repair their ruined fortunes, and by the aid of Northern skill and ingenuity to essuperior to that destroyed. In this they have sucne freight, we are informed, was picked up yes- coeded beyond the most sanguine expectations, and though only two years have elapsed since the close of the war, yet the results warrant a continuance in the belief that "Cotton is indeed King." We have had the pleasure of examining a sample of Sea Island cotton grown by the Hon. JNO.

TOWNTEND, on Edisto Island. This cotton was raised from seed selected from healthy stalks, and s soft and silky in texture, and by far the best ever brought to this market. Only three bales of this quality were raised, two of which were shipped to Havre and one sent to the Paris Exposition. A proof that this cotton is far superior to the best ong staple ever brought to the market, is the price that it commands among merchants. Three dollars per round was offered and refused, as it ould easily bring three fifty in France, where the finer grades of cotton are extensively used in the nanufacture of different goods. Mr. Townsenn's cotton has long been celebrated as the finest over rought to Charleston, but this suppasses all that he has previously grown, and shows to what perfection the culture of the plant may be carried. When the question of labor has been difinitely settled, and our planters have adopted the different labor-saving machines and improved methods of agriculture, we may expect our staple to become finer, softer, and more silky than at present, while at the same time the price will be proportionally

A VERY SUGGESTIVE QUESTION .-

CHARLESTON, S. C. May 19, 1867. EDITOR DAILY NEWS: Please to insert the followng questions, in which a good many of our people are interested at the present time: Can a Chapcain in the United States service be etigible to the office of Governor of a State, or to the United States Senate, or has he a right, either by law or custom, to take a prominent part in politics?
